

WAS CONFESSION OF BUYING VOTES

FADE TO THE DANVILLE GRAND JURY TODAY?

PROBE TO BE STARTLING

Sheriff Who Purchased Votes Does Not Believe Anyone Will Be Convicted by Jury.

Danville, Ill., Jan. 21.—City Attorney Frank Jones, it is alleged has confessed to buying votes at the last election and will go before the grand jury and give the details.

It is said Jones, who managed Shepard's campaign, said he bought a large number of votes for Shepard and had kept a list of names and amounts paid, but recently destroyed it, but thought he could remember most of them.

A prominent man says there is no doubt in his mind that hundreds of men sold their votes and are known to various candidates and politicians and they should be made to tell them.

It is alleged Jones admitted he used the money in his own election, perhaps $3,000. His office pays $1,200 a year and is for two years.

It was alleged Sheriff Shepard admitted buying votes, but says he will not confess to the grand jury as it would be impossible to secure a jury to convict any man who bought votes, when confronted with the above facts, Attorney Jones denied making any such statements as credited him.

Jury and voted an indictment against former County Treasurer Whitlock, who, it is alleged, was $38,000 short in accounts. He is supposed to be in Detroit.

Summonses are being served today upon more than 100 other prominent citizens and politicians for appearance before the grand jury Monday.

Cooling Weather of the Past Week
Starts Activities In Leaf Crop—
First Deliveries Made.

Edgerton, Wis., Jan. 21.—The long looked for ease weather finally has come and the entire population of the "Tobacco City" and surrounding country wears the same broad smile. The season is late, to be sure, but coming as it does it is a God-send to the growers, the dealers and to the laboring class as well. The wish of the growers is now fulfilled and the dealers are anxious to get in possession of the weed at the warehouses in order that assorting, sacking and packing may begin. From now on and for months to come thousands of men and women will be given employment at good wages and soon every warehouse will be running in full capacity. The American Tobacco Company was the first to receive, even in partial lots, and yesterday marked the beginning of delivering.

Council Problem.

ENGINEERING CORPS NEEDED TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS IN NAVY

Representative Hobson Makes Statement to United Press Regarding Accident on Battleship Delaware in Which Eight Were Killed.

(Copyright 1911 by the United Press Association.)

By Richmond Pearson Hobson, Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Following the accident on the new dreadnaught Delaware, in which eight men were killed Tuesday, Representative Richmond Pearson Hobson, member of the house committee on naval affairs and formerly a constructor in the navy, gave the United Press the following statement.

"We shall continue to have frequent accidents in our navy just so long as we continue to lack a technically trained and highly expert corps of engineers, in my opinion."

It is difficult to comment on such accidents as that on the Delaware yesterday in which eight men were killed by an explosion in the fire room, without knowing something of the circumstances and the probable cause. But I cannot but associate with the decline in engineering efficiency which I think has taken place since 1899, in that year the engineer corps and the line officers were merged. Since then, in my opinion, the navy has been the loser. This loss has been offset somewhat by the department warrant officers into said trained specialists. However, it is not to be expected that when a naval officer is engaged in a battle he will spread over the whole field of activity, that he is going to attain the best results in any branch.

I do not wish to criticize the personnel in the least. The American naval officer as a commander, and as an all around fighting officer is of the highest type. But I maintain that none of them are an expert engineers as they should be.

I would like to see the establishment of a technical corps the whole purpose of which would be to develop a highly skilled force. A corps of specialists in other words, should be created which should give its attention to the engineering problems of the navy. Once in this corps, a man should stay in and be expected to know only enough of sea service to enable him to work in harmony with the sea going division of the service.

I believe Secretary of the Navy Meyer is doing the best he can under the laws which are in force. However, in my opinion, we shall continue to have these distressing accidents, just as long as the present system is permitted to prevail.

SEEK COMMUTATION OF DEATH DECREES

English Socialists Will Attempt To Intersect Government In Cases of Japs Sentenced To Death.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 21.—That the government of England and France will be asked by the socialist members of their respective law making bodies to use their services in behalf of the alleged Japanese socialists, found guilty of conspiring to assassinate the emperor of Mexico, is the belief of Victor L. Berger, socialist congressman-elect.

"While I do not know all the details of the case," said Berger, "it is plain to see that the charge that they have conspired against the life of the emperor was simply trumped up in order to punish the convicted persons for being socialists. The action makes it evident that Japan is still a barbaric nation. The perfumery nature of the charges also indicates no crime, except being socialists."

Jack London, the noted socialist novelist of California also voted a bitter protest against the action of the Japanese government. He said "It was wicked under the action of a pack of wolves which would eat their own kind when one of the pack becomes fatigued." Commutation to life imprisonment for 22 of the condemned socialists was given by the milardo yesterday but no clemency was extended to the leaders of the plot.

TO CHANGE LAWS IN IMPORTANT RESPECT

Assemblyman McConnell Is Working
Out System For the Election
Law Changes.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 21.—Ignorant voters who cannot read or write, or who otherwise are unable to comprehend an Australian ballot, will not be allowed assistance in marking their ballots, if a proposed amendment to the primary law is adopted. This provision probably will be incorporated in the second choice primary bill which Assemblyman J. E. McConnell of La Crosse is working day and night to prepare, and which is intended to carry out the pledge in the republican state platform. It is also expected that the prohibition of assistance for ignorant voters will be tacked onto the present general election laws, and in both new only the provision for assistance to "physically disabled or blind" persons will be left. Decision in favor of this amendment has been reached by the progressive republican leaders as a result of experience in various parts of the state during the last state primary. In one case, for example, foreign laborers who had nothing but their "first papers" and who were unable to read and write, were herded into election booths and their ballots virtually directed by hired mobsters of a candidate for the republican nomination for district attorney. Of course after 1912, by the operation of an amendment to the constitution, "first paper" citizens will not be allowed to vote and it will be necessary for a person to have been a resident of the United States for five years before he can exercise the franchise privilege. This undoubtedly will operate to reduce the number of illiterate voters, leaving only the small percentage of illiterate native born persons, to whom this proposed law will particularly apply.

Mr. McConnell's bill as strictly applied to majority nominations will be practically the same as one introduced by him two years ago, which on account of the fact that a political complexion of the assembly was not passed. The bill essentially is long and somewhat involved and the author is now banding his efforts to make his provisions as clear as possible, as it will have to be carried out in the main by persons who usually are not versed in the law. It will provide that after each candidate name on the ballot there shall be two columns, one for first choice of the voter and the other for second choice. The voter marks a cross indicating these choices and in counting the ballots, the candidate receiving the smallest number of votes, if there be more than three, is eliminated, and so on until it reaches between the two highest. In the meantime, second choice votes have been added to the first choice votes of the candidates left in the race, and the one receiving a majority secured the nomination. As the law now stands, the candidate receiving the "straggles" is nominated. The second choice primary frequently is called the "Mary Ann" idea.

ADVANTAGES AND SCOPE OF SCHOOL

FOR TRAINING OF ROCK COUNTY RURAL TEACHERS, EXPLAINED

BY COUNTY SUP'T. ANTISEL

Would Be of Advantage to the City in Financial Way—County Needs Well-Trained Teachers.

The committee of the county board who have the matter of the county training school in charge, composed of Earl Cleveland, Beloit; Chas. E. Moore, Magnolia; and County Supt. Antisel, met this morning in the latter's office and perfected some organization among themselves and discussed the establishment of such a school. The committee is to make a report to the next meeting of the board in the spring and are settling certain matters concerning applications for teachers' positions and the salary which they are to receive.

County Supt. Antisel, by request, has prepared an article giving some information on the county training school.

"Since the county board of supervisors voted to establish a county training school for teachers in Rock county many questions have been asked about the purpose, work, students, cost, etc., of such schools, questions which showed that most people were quite unfamiliar with the subject.

"The purpose of such schools is to give a course of study and training which specially fits their students for the profession of teaching in rural schools. Many country school teachers never were in a district school until the day they commenced teaching there, and were accustomed to entirely different customs, methods and conditions in their life and school work. Often the change is so great, and the responsibilities and work so arduous, that teachers become discouraged and do very unsatisfactory work, when if they had been properly prepared for their duties they would have liked them and would have been successful.

"The training school seeks to some extent to remedy these conditions, and, by special training in the studies taught in rural schools, and along lines of country school work, it prepares its graduates for better service in their teaching, and strives to make them helpful leaders in all the varied life of their districts. Most of the training school students can finish the course of study there in less time than it takes to complete a high school course, thus saving time and expense, which can be used for other purposes.

A few who are not fitted to become teachers are sifted out and advised to take up some other line of work, thus saving them from failure in teaching, and keeping that many poor teachers out of the schools.

"Twenty-four of these county training schools are now running successfully. Dodge county voted to establish the twenty-fifth some time ago, but has not yet started it. Rock county secured permission to start the twenty-sixth one, which is the last one provided for by the state legislature. We were just a few days ahead of Kenosha county with our request, and that county must wait for some possible arrangement for them to establish one.

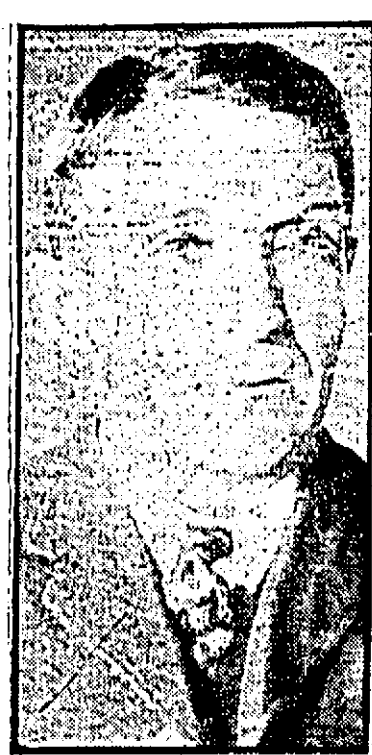

"Such schools are under the supervision of the state superintendent, and the state pays two-thirds of the cost of maintaining them, after they are established, if they are maintained to meet the approval of the state superintendent. Provided that the state will not pay more than three thousand five hundred dollars in any one year. Usually the cost does not require that amount.

"By law the county board decides about the location of the school. In this county the decision is not likely to be made before the latter part of April when the next meeting of the county board occurs. Beloit, Evansville, Janesville, and possibly some other places, may make offers to secure the school. Some of the advantages presented by different places are public libraries, healthful environment, good social, educational and moral conditions; and the interest of their people in school work. Then there is the matter of suitable buildings or rooms, with or without equipment, lights, heat, water, and janitor service. The first location is often only temporary, and a building may be provided by the county later.

"As the course of study requires observation of teaching and practice teaching there must be provision made for this in locating the school. Observation and teaching in city grades would not be satisfactory, as the environment and conditions are so different from the country schools. Therefore there ought to be a country school near by, or there ought to be provision made for having grade or country school pupils come to the training school to be taught there. It would be well if the permanent location could be where there is a farm and an opportunity to establish an agricultural school.

"With the exception of location and building the school is in charge of a board of three members, two of whom are elected by the county board. The third member is the county superintendent in office, who is secretary of the board as long as he is superintendent.

"There is a principal, and one or more assistant teachers, as may be required, each of whom must have the qualifications necessary for a principal of a four year high school. And special fitness for the training of teachers is still more essential, as well as an intimate knowledge of country school conditions and needs.

PLOT TO BLOW UP MICHIGAN STATE'S PRISON FOILED.

In center, Warden Simpson of state's prison at Jackson, Mich. At left, James Burke; at right, Charles Thompson, two of the five incorrigibles believed to have been leaders in the Jackson nitroglycerine plot.

a fee of about 75 cents a week for tuition, which has to be paid by their home county if it has no training school. Fees go towards paying the county's share of the expenses of the school.

"Rock county has a bill of about $500 to pay for such tuition last year, and a similar bill is expected this year. In addition to this may be mentioned the increased care and expense of sending many of the pupils farther from home when we have no training school here.

"As families often move into the city where their children attend school, the training school is likely to bring a number of families to the city where it is located. The students would do much of their training in the city where they attend school, and trade from their families is also drawn there. Then there is the large item of providing rooms, board, fuel, groceries, laundry, entertainments, etc., for a number of boarding people. Each institution secured by a city also helps to draw other concerns. Altogether the training school will mean considerable in a financial way to the city which secures it.

"Such a school requires an assembly room, with seats, desks, for a hundred or more people; two or three recitation rooms, with equipment; office for principal, and a place for the library; and cloak and toilet rooms.

"The course of study gives thorough work on all the studies taken up in country schools, and some high school studies. Special emphasis is placed on methods of teaching, the different branches, on school organization and government, and on the preparation of material which the student can use later, when teaching. Students must show not only that they know the subjects studied, but also that they can teach them to others. Training schools are more helpful to their students than normal schools are, because, on account of the smaller number of students, they come into closer contact with their instructors and receive more individual help. The instructors also follow up the work of the students when they begin teaching, and aid them in various ways. Students learn how many of the actual conditions and needs of their home county, their experience shows that most of them teach.

"The requirements for entrance vary a little in different schools. Entrance examination are sometimes given by the principal. Usually it is required that the applicant have a diploma showing graduation from a rural school or the city grades, or if one holds a teacher's certificate or a high school diploma he is admitted to the advanced course. None are graduated under some fixed age limit, about 17 or 18 years of age. Those who have had two years or more of high school work can usually finish the training school course in a year. Those with less preparation would require two or more years to complete the course.

"Graduates get certificates good for three years. If the first year's teaching is successful, and standings are good for normal credits, if the student later takes up advanced work at a normal school.

"Each year Rock county employs in the rural schools a number of teachers from outside of the county. This year twenty-eight such teachers are so employed. It is hoped that with a training school we may be able to train and educate more nearly enough teachers from our county. We are likely to have a larger number of students than most counties, as we have more schools and a larger population.

"With better trained teachers there would be more interest in the country schools, and much better results for the money expended by the districts. This would help in the broadening and uplifting of the farm life, which is one of the great problems of today and the future.

"The six weeks' summer course would give an opportunity for starting off all the beginners in teaching with a better knowledge of the conditions in their home county, and under the direction of the teachers and superintendent under whose supervision the beginners must work. If students go outside of the county for their training all this opportunity is lost, and the whole work of the schools is weakened.

"There are some of the important facts regarding the training schools and their work. A little later, when the board gets the arrangements more nearly completed, a pamphlet will be sent out giving the course of study and other information relative to the school."

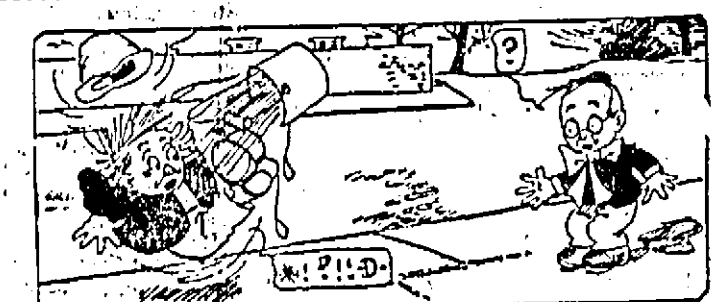

FORMER EVANSVILLE RESIDENT DIES SUDDENLY IN THE EAST

Cassian Andrews Passes Away at His Home at Clement, Maryland. (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Evansville, Wis., Jan. 21.—A telegram was received this morning which brought the sad news of the death of Cassian Andrews, son of Mrs. Sarah W. Andrews of this city. His death occurred at 4:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home in Clement, Maryland, and was due to blood poisoning. The announcement of his death comes as a great shock to his many friends.

In this city, as but very few had heard of his illness, Mr. Andrews was about fifty-seven years of age and besides his aged mother he leaves a wife, four daughters and two sons. He is also survived by two sisters, the Misses Elmore and Marilla Andrews of this city, and one brother, Jerome Andrews of Washington.

Rising and Retiring. The Harvard Crimson says it is absurd to ring the college bell at 7 in the morning, because "many students find no occasion to rise so early." Yes; but how are the others to know when to go to bed?

The Butterflies Know.

"Young men whose incomes are small should realize that social butterflies are not 'for them,'" says a New York minister. Unless they behave as if the income limit didn't exist, the social butterflies will soon make them realize that they are not for them very strong. The aid of the pulpit is not required.

Never an Overproduction. So long as there are thousands of poorly nourished and underfed men, women and children in every large city, many of whom are sustained by charitable aid, there can be no overproduction of food. Are You--YOU--a Booster?

Cities and enterprises are built by men with vision—men who will stake their capital and confidence in a venture and see the thing through—men who have apparently an unlimited supply of enthusiasm—men who substantiate their arguments by facts—men who are far-seeing enough to know that the ultimate success of any individual or interest means the success and growth of all.

Suppose, Mr. Booster, that you take it upon yourself to note how the principal cities of today have forged to the front many of them overcoming the greatest obstacles, while, on the other hand, Janesville has nearly everything in its favor by virtue of its location, surroundings, natural resources, etc.

Then, if you are a booster for yourself, Get Together and Boost Janesville.

FILMS FOR GOOD PICTURES

You will probably take some "snow pictures" this winter, or other photographs under the bright winter sun. Do you know exactly what timing and lighting is necessary for best results under these conditions? To a certain extent, perhaps, yes. But only long experience and the keenest judgment of light will enable you to gauge rightly under all conditions. For these reasons you should use the film that has sufficient speed and latitude to compensate for miscalculations in shutter or timing. You should use AUSCO FILM, because it gives clear definition, transparency in shadows and a balance of color not possible with any other film. It enables the amateur to do expert work and attain a new standard in his work. Ausco film fits any camera, won't curl, is easy to handle and is the film for the amateur as well as the expert. LOVE TO RULE HUMAN BROTHERHOOD

By REV. W. H. MEDLAR
Pastor of Linden Hills Congregational Church, Minneapolis

TEXT—A new commandment give I unto you, that you love one another.—John XIII, 34.

This was a new idea that Jesus proclaimed to men. It was a fruit that ripened in the genial atmosphere which he himself brought into the world. This social consciousness or love for others was a plant of slow growth. The world had already arrived at a good age when it began to recognize this great principle.

Think for a moment of the genesis or evolution of love. When we note the difference between the ancient time, when the tribe or clan was the only bond between men, all outside being considered enemies, and these modern times when a peace conference at The Hague settles the leading nations of the earth, we can see that a great change has taken place in the thoughts of men and nations toward each other. This is a creation far greater than the physical world.

Something of the geologist's sense of time must be appreciated. Ages and eons rather than years or even centuries must be considered. The impassioned reformer needs to be trained to patience in his anticipation of these best things.

It took nearly 100 years for this country to insert the anti-slavery clause, which Thomas Jefferson rejected, into the Declaration of Independence. This star, not yet risen in Washington's time, came to the horizon on Lincoln's day.

The encroachment of the sea upon the continent is not more steady and relentless than the climbing of the masses of humanity into the prerogatives and favorable conditions once monopolized by the few. Well furnished homes, with musical instruments, higher education, amusements, luxuries that once were limited to the rich and noble, are today becoming the widespread heritage of the common people.

One characteristic of President McKinley's administration was making nearly a hundred appointments from the ranks of the laboring man.

The classes of intelligence, wealth and leisure are no longer looking with aloof indifference upon the multitude in their pitiful ignorance, but with sympathetic attention to the causes which produce and the forces which may change these unhappy conditions. When all grades of society will begin to co-operate in raising mankind to the highest possible level, then it will be recognized that the life is more than meat and the body than raiment, and man will have gone far in entering upon his universal kingdom.

Christian socialism teaches that the individual cannot live unto himself, and that the social individual is the necessary unit of feeling. A maximum of relationship with every kind of peoples is the substance of the true individual.

What, then, do we mean by the awakening of social consciousness—this love for our fellows? It means that we are clearly awakening to the tug of common life—the beat of its heart, the thunder of its tread. Does the mother recognize the tug of her child, perhaps at the skirts of her dress, or as the little hand wiggles into hers by her side. The tug of 100,000 coal miners, in their oppression and wronged conditions? When this common life of humanity, with its tug and sweat, became realized, the tug could no longer be resisted. Selfish and materialistic capital, with its greed, had to give way. So must the social consciousness in the right of others be compelled to come to standards of justice and mutual rights.

There is the tug of 10,000 children from dusty, grimy, poorly ventilated factories. Their cry is for freedom. The cry is for better prenatal conditions. Formation is more important than reformation. Marriage laws need reconstruction to prevent irresponsible births of children. Children entering life with such low vitality, because of the vice or overworked condition of the parents that they cannot compete in the struggle of life, and hence are thrown upon society as paupers or criminals.

The tug of patriotism, how it penetrates and burrows into the soul. Great life purposes are laid aside. Glad delights are exchanged for endurance of pain. This is the tug of the nation for its safety. So also should the soul awaken to the universal cry of the race for freedom and safety.

It is to the interests of all sides that the readjustment of the social classes should come as a steady evolutionary process rather than as a social catastrophe. It is unchristian to regard human life as a mere instrument or chattel for the production of wealth.

Fraternel redemption can only come when the brotherly idea is fully recognized. We have passed the age of heroes and institutions, and have come to the era of the people.

Well has Jesus said, "A new commandment, give I unto you, that ye love one another." Jesus Christ, a new circle, a new center, a new atmosphere is necessary. Now for a leaving. Let this new life sift into every nook and cranny and corner of human life and human society. "He that saith I love God and loveth not his brother is a liar."

Must Be Chic.

No woman objects to wearing a halo if she can tilt it up a little and so give style and snap to her saintliness.

POULTRY

ORIGIN OF AMERICAN TURKEY.

Only Specimen of Native Fauna Which Has Ever Been Reduced to Domestication.

The turkey is the only specimen of the native fauna of America which has ever been reduced to domestication. The original wild turkey from which our domesticated breeds have descended was a noble bird, strong of leg and wing, ranging the forests in large flocks and attaining great weights. The Bronze turkey of today retains the characteristics of the wild bird most completely.

Since this bird was subjugated and subdued to the use of man it has broken into several varieties: Bronze, Narragansett, White Buff, Black, Slate. Of these the Bronze and the White far outnumber all others combined, says Miller Purvis, in American Cultivator.

An adult Bronze turkey male weighs 36 pounds, and the adult female 20 pounds. This is the most popular variety we have and grows more popular as time passes. Of all our domestic fowls the Bronze turkey is the most beautiful, as far as the color of the plumage is concerned. Good specimens have a bronze luster on the plumage of the males in breast and neck and upper part of the back which resembles highly burnished copper with greenish and golden reflections. The female is not so brightly colored, her predominant colors being black and dull white. This variety is very hardy and has considerable wild blood of recent crossings in it, making it the nearest akin to the regular wild bird of any variety.

The Narragansett turkey is not quite as large as the Bronze, and is black and grayish white in color, making it a much lighter-colored bird.

Turkeys are more creatures of habit than any other of our feathered fowl; yet, while they will roam over the prairie during the day in search of food, they will always come home at night if one will make a practice of feeding them however lightly.

Bath Water for Pigeons.

Pigeons must have clean bathing water about three times a week.

Poultry and dairy farming go well together.

Cold is the greatest factor in the keeping of eggs.

Not more than twenty-five birds should be kept in one flock.

One of the conditions of the poultryman is to find the difference between hens.

And after a chicken is about half grown it is surprising what a lot they can eat.

The poultrymen who know what each hen is doing usually takes better care of each hen.

Bacteria can be kept away from eggs to some extent by frequently renewing the nest material.

It is a pleasure to raise healthy birds and they are not delicate creatures if properly cared for.

If you want your boy to become interested in live stock farming give him a start in keeping poultry.

Although there is no great premium on yellow skinned chickens, yet the average consumer prefers them.

Wherever it is possible, the colony house system of housing poultry is strongly recommended for the general farm.

It costs but little, if any more, to grow a pound of poultry than a pound of pork; the price per pound of each speaks for itself.

Pullets are the best layers. Old hens bring the egg record down. Sell off the old hens to make room for the maturing pullets.

In the poultry business, perhaps, more than in any other, time and attention given in details, rather than a large expenditure of money, is what means profit or loss.

In some of the German egg depots a guarantee of quality is made by which if a purchaser should buy a bad egg he will be entitled to receive 16 good ones in exchange.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

It may seem like presumption on the part of a secular paper to follow up the discussion of a week ago, with another Saturday Night story along similar lines, but the church is well represented in the Gazette's constituency, and the problem of how to reach the people is still perplexing.

The fact is slowly dawning upon the minds of many good people that the church fails to reach the masses because it does not get down to their level, and that effort is exhausted in trying to pull people up to a higher level, rather than in getting down among them and lifting through the power of human love and sympathy.

The church building is dedicated to worship—the place where tired people come together after the conflict of the week, for rest and encouragement. This worship sometimes assumes the mistaken name of service, and some people are impressed with the notion that they are zealously serving the Lord when they attend public worship on Sunday.

But the church is not the building; that is simply the shell. The church is composed of individual units, bound together by cords and rights, all supposed to be divinely commissioned and representing the greatest organized moral force in the community. Sometimes the shell which houses us on Sunday, absorbs so much thought and attention, that we have neither energy nor ambition for the practical church work of the six days which should be devoted to service.

The argument is sometimes advanced that the church is over-organized and so much time and money is devoted to building and maintenance that but little remains for outside work.

church fails to furnish. This is good work, but the organization is shunned by many people because they associate it with the church.

This leaves the great field of opportunity unoccupied, and so the saloon and other resorts continue to take toll of an army of men of all ages, whom the church fails to interest, while a larger class withhold moral support because of indifference.

To overcome this spirit of indifference and to interest the masses, there was recently dedicated, in the city of Rochester, New York, under the auspices of the old brick church, a building known as the "Brick Church Institute," an illustrated account of which appears in the "Technical World" for February.

"The institute, which cost, complete, $150,000, is located beside the brick church. It is an attractive structure comprising four stories and basement, and has a frontage of 60 feet and a depth of 150 feet.

"While the structure is rigidly plain, the interior possesses an air of good taste and even elegance in its appointments.

"The front lobby resembles that of a well conducted hotel with a terrace floor, imposing columns and general air of elegance. At one side is a safe for lockers, a mail case, key case, check room, switchboard controlling the lighting system, and all other appointments of a first-class hotel.

"Facing the rear in the lobby is a ladies' room and parlor. A spacious kitchen and dining room seating 150 are also on the first floor.

"Down one flight of stairs is the gymnasium, equipped with every modern appliance, including 150 steel lockers for men. In the adjoining room is the swimming pool, 40 feet long, and from three and a half to seven feet deep.

"Marble shower baths are also near by. In the next room are lockers for women to the number of fifty-two, and certain hours daily are set apart for women who have access to the gymnasium and swimming pool. Boys have lockers to the number of one hundred and ten, all to themselves.

"On the left of the basement are four excellent bowling alleys. For the lovers of pool and billiards provision is made by the installation of three pool and one billiard table. The cost of these games is made just half the charge elsewhere, as tickets are sold at a cut rate.

"Across the entire front of the first floor are smoking, lounging and reading rooms for men. The decorations are in a pleasing mission style and an attractive fireplace and an abundance of magazines give a home-like air.

"In the rear of the first floor is an assembly hall which seats three hundred persons. The stage is equipped with drop curtain, scenery and all that goes to comprise a well constituted stage of fairly average capacity. On this stage will take place dramatic performances by the amateurs of the church. Near by is a room for boys and a circulating library room. The housekeeper is well provided for with a five-room flat.

"On the second floor, also, are located the class rooms, for the educational end is one of the leading aims of the new work. In these class rooms will be taught millinery, shirt-waist making, basketry, woodwork and all manual training arts. Any one is welcome to join these classes and the fee is only one dollar to be paid for membership.

"The entire upper floors are given up to rooms of which there are eighty-two. Lodging costs by the week from two dollars to four dollars and thirty cents a week. No finer appointments are furnished in any of Rochester's hotels. Telephones, shower baths and in fact all conveniences are furnished on each floor.

"To insure the safety of the inmates, an elaborate fire alarm system is employed. As soon as the temperature reaches one hundred and forty-two degrees Fahrenheit, a wire fuses and an alarm is automatically sent in to the office.

"Brick Church Institute owes its existence to the generosity of its founder and chief contributor, Henry Alvin Strong, to Rev. William H. Taylor, the energetic pastor of the church, and to the faithful of the congregation who, after the building funds had been furnished by Mr. Strong, themselves provided the amount requisite for its equipment and furnishing.

"Just what are the causes leading up to this departure in church activity are perhaps best told in the words of the Rev. V. V. Raymond of New York, who spoke at the dedication. Speaking of 'The Rotation of the Church to the People,' he declared that fully two-thirds of the people are out of touch with the church and that the fact that a large part of these are among the working class is significant.

"This situation," he declared, "is not altogether due to the church, but to social and economic changes. The church unfortunately has heretofore been unable to keep abreast of these changes. In the past, spiritual ministry, the ministry to the soul, has been regarded as all important. All other ministry has been held of only relative importance. The re-organization going on in the church is concerned with the realization that ministry to human needs is just as important.

effort to steal the liver of the devil for the service of the Lord, but the time is not far distant when the question of what constitutes innocent amusements, will be left to individual conscience, where it belongs.

The sin of a great variety of recreations is not in their use, but in their abuse, and this fact is recognized by the brick church in Rochester. The experiment is worth watching, and as success crowns the effort, it will recommend itself for adoption, in other communities.

THE GOSPEL OF WORK.

"My Father worketh hitherto, and I work," said the Nazarene.

God works. You will find a record of some of his works in an old book called Genesis. From the beginning the Almighty was busy.

And if you want to find some of the workings of God today go out of doors and look about you. The great thing in nature is—

Activity.

And from the time man began to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow down to this minute there has been for him one gospel of life—the gospel of work.

We are so made that we can only find pleasure in doing things.

And in this respect we are in the image and likeness of God who, you must conclude, finds his pleasure in doing great things.

Idleness? Idleness is treason to the universe in which you live.

The planets do not loaf. The sun never gets lazy. The moon arrives on schedule.

There is a wide difference between idleness and rest. God rested on the seventh day, but he is never idle. Rest is only a period of preparation for doing.

The idle man is the miserable man. It must be so, because—

The sanity of divinity is in the work of a man's hands and mind.

The idle rich who fancy they can live in sweet idleness find the hardest thing to do is "kill time."

The man who "loafs" from all business because he has made a competency will some time come to the feeling that he might as well be Oedipus.

The saturated sponge filled with the deadly perfume of the lotus flower has been pressed to his nostrils until he is no longer alive.

He is dead! And only waits about to postpone funeral expenses.

If somebody would just wake him up and give him the blessing of a hard job!

Activity is life.

Idleness is death.

The primal curse is also the primal blessing—work and enjoy life and rest.

I went one day to a royal place and saw a king with a clumsy face; he had a bush of burnous on his head and he looked so tired and so woe-begone, that I said to myself as I left the hall, and stole a picture from off the wall: "If a king's so tired or his regal state, I'm glad I'm only a common skater!"

I traveled for a distant town to see a man of a high renown; when he saw me coming he pranced and reared, for he was weary of being bored. "The horse all come to my roost," he said, "and off I'm wishing that I were dead! They ask me questions and poke my slats, and borrow stories and kink my ears." Then the great man asked me to kindly sit, and turned a hand spring.

J. A. FARRELL.
New Head of Steel Trust.

New York, N. Y.—James A. Farrell, who started business in life at 16 years of age as a laborer in a wire mill at $1.65 a week, was selected recently by J. Pierpont Morgan, Judge Elbert H. Gary and other directors of the United States Steel Corporation to succeed William Ellis Corey as president of the billion dollar trust at a salary of $50,000 a year.

Farrell is unknown to the general public, but persons conversant with the steel industry are aware that as president and a director of the United States Steel Products-Export company, an subsidiary of the steel trust, he has for eight years been a dominating factor in that branch of the industry.

Ancients Were Bibulous.

The ancients were so fond of drink that their most popular god was Bacchus. Their feasts in honor of Bacchus, Venus and Saturn were characterized by debaucheries from which the most advanced insubriates today would shrink in horror and disgust. The average gourmet of Athens or Rome ate and drank more in a single day than we do in a week.

More than 200 men were employed in the mine and the number missing has not yet been ascertained. The cause of the explosion is unknown, but it is thought it was due to the disregard of danger signals by the miners.

300 REBELS EXECUTED

Men Who Took Part in Mutiny in Rio Janeiro Punished.

British Ship Brings News of Execution of Rebels, and Bodies Were Dropped into Sea.

Guilford, Miss., Jan. 21.—Three hundred men who participated in the recent mutiny at Rio Janeiro, Brazil, were executed and their bodies consigned to the sea, according to the statements made by officers of the British steamer King George, which has arrived here from South America. The King George was at Rio Janeiro during the mutiny and bombardment of the city and the steamer came near being struck by shells. The vessel was in such a position that the shots passed very close to her.

Five war vessels of the Brazilian navy and the forts on the mainland bombarded the island for a whole day, the surrender not taking place until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The next day 300 of the captured rebels were taken to sea on board a battleship and executed and bodies thrown overboard.

MORGAN FAVORS ALDRICH'S PLAN

Enthusiastic Indorsement of the New Bank Proposition.

STATEMENT BY H. P. DAVISON

Member of the Firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. Says the Plan Would Give Mobility to Millions Now Lying Idle in Banks.

New York, Jan. 21.—A statement issued from the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. by Henry P. Davison of that firm, gives the Aldrich currency reform plan the most enthusiastic indorsement it has received from any notable Wall street source. The statement is as follows:

"Senator Aldrich's plan is admirably effective and simple. In the framing of the proposed bill there may be various details to work out, but the essential thing is that the proposal as made is well fitted to all conditions and to all sections of the United States. It possesses the advantages of the great central banks of Europe and eliminates all the disadvantages, especially those that would prove burdensome in this country because of the peculiar conditions existing here.

"This plan is certainly representative and most equitable. Each institution in the United States would have fair representation and opportunity to avail itself of the advantages of the reserve association. In the second place, the association is so safeguarded as to be free from control by any special interest and the supervising officers will not be subject to political influences.

"The proposed association renders all the service that would under any circumstances be rendered by the clearing houses, making it possible for a bank promptly to realize upon its assets. The restrictions of the Aldrich plan are such as to insure the conservative use of such facilities.

"Such a plan as Senator Aldrich has outlined would give mobility to some thirteen or fourteen millions of dollars now lying idle in bank vaults. The plan for assuming the note issues of the national banks is one which can not fail to appeal to all national bank officers.

"I can not help feeling that free and honest discussion of the whole proposal will afford a basis for a solution of the currency problems."

ROB GUESTS AT PARTY

Unusual Hold-Up in Fashionable New York Section.

Hostess and Guests Lined Up in Train Robbery Style and Relieved of Their Valuables.

New York, Jan. 21.—An unusual hold-up was pulled off in a fashionable section of uptown New York shortly before 1 a. m. Mrs. Frances Elliott, a society woman, had been entertaining a small party of guests at her home in West Fifty-sixth street, and her guests were just putting on their wraps and saying good night when five rough looking men pushed through the open door.

With drawn revolvers the intruders lined up the hostess and her guests in train robbery fashion and proceeded to go through the pockets of the men and the handbags of the women, now and then pushing to remove a tempting bit of jewelry.

Mrs. Elliott and her friends were so thoroughly frightened by the threats and rough actions of the robbers that they made no outcry until the men had left the apartment.

GAVE LIVES TO SAVE BABIES

Two Indiana Women Wrap Babies in Shawls and Die of Exposure.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 21.—In order to save the lives of their babies, two Yankton Indian women caught in a storm on the prairie at night near Roseland, Tripp county, this state, stripped off their blankets and wrapped the little ones in them and then crooned them to sleep while they themselves were frozen to death.

The women with their husbands, had been visiting on Bow Creek, and were driving across the country when their wagon broke down. The men went to town for help. When they returned with a rescue party one of the women was dead from the cold, and the other died in a short time. Both babies were unharmed.

NORTON TO RETIRE SOON

Taft's Secretary Plans to Return to Chicago Business.

Towney, Denby and Hills Regarded as Among Those Who May Succeed Mr. Norton.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Charles D. Norton, who has been secretary to the president for about six months, will retire soon. This was announced by the White House in the following statement:

"The fact that Charles D. Norton, secretary to President Taft would retire from that position soon to return to private business in Chicago was disclosed in connection with the proposal to increase the salary of the secretary from $4,000 to $10,000. Mr. Norton strongly urged the increase, but declared he would not be the beneficiary of the increase."

Mr. Norton has had an understanding with the president that as soon as the White House staff had been firmly established on the new appropriation he would be free to return to private business at such time as the president found it convenient, but the date of his leaving is still uncertain.

The retirement of Mr. Norton undoubtedly means that Mr. Taft will put a man of political experience in the important position of secretary who will be able to advise him in the coming campaign, and Representatives Towney and Denby and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Charles D. Hills are among those regarded as possibilities to succeed Norton.

SKATERS LOSE LIVES

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 21.—After many hours search, the bodies of Fred Behmfield and his sweetheart, Letitia Tolford, each 19 years old, of South Manchester, were found near the spot where they disappeared while skating on the Weatherford lake.

Behmfield apparently lost his life in trying to save his sweetheart. A double funeral will be held in Manchester on Sunday.

TWO KILLED IN BIG FIRE

Hotel and Opera House in Ashes as Result of Fire.

Firemen Impelled by Falling Walls—Women Carried to Safety—Vandal Robbing the Ruins.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Jan. 21.—Fire originating in the servants' quarters of the Traders' hotel swept a part of the business district, inflicting a pecuniary loss of $250,000, while it is estimated two died in the ruins. The fire spread from the Traders' hotel to the Grand Opera house. It was destroyed with the effects of "The Told in the Hills" company. The Herald Printing company's plant, the D. M. Ogden Drygoods store, whose loss is $30,000, Palace Furniture company loss, $30,000, and other smaller structures, whose loss will total $250,000. The hotel and opera house were three stories, a brick covering a quarter of a square, while practically the whole square was gutted. The Fairmont fire department was called on to help control the flames, which were driven by a stiff wind. Firemen had narrow escapes from falling walls and two are believed to be dead in the ruins. Women were carried from the hotel to safety. Vandals are robbing the ruins.

Pictures Rapidly Passing.

In an article dealing with the mural paintings in Westminster palace, M. H. Spielmann, in the Graphic, draws attention to the sad conclusion of some of the older pictures at St. Stephen's. Several of them, including "The Spirit of Religion," by W. C. Morley, R. A., and "The Banquet of Elizabeth," by W. Dyce, R. A., are practically invisible by day, the flesh has all disappeared, and such is their condition that the last time he examined them he was told "the color comes off on your hand." Not much better is the case of Daniel Maclellan's "Meeting of Wellington and Blucher After Waterloo," which was once most judiciously washed, when color came off with the dirt.—London Globe.

London Charles Streets. The London county council is endeavoring to reduce the number of Charles streets in London. They have already brought about a considerable decrease in the number of John streets. There are 18 Charles streets in the County of London, five of which are in Westminster. It has been suggested by the London county council to Westminster city council that Charles street, Longacre, should be given one of the following names: Arno street, after Dr. Arne the composer; Laroon, after Captain Laroon (1679-1772), an actor or singer at Drury Lane, or Mohun, after Michael Mohun, an actor performing at the Cockpit, Drury Lane.

Specialized Farming. Miss Josale Nicholson inherited a farm of 225 acres in New Jersey, which her father had farmed in the old way. When she took it she realized that the new way to do things is to specialize, so she began to do this on the farm. She raises Canada field peas, her own hay and makes a silo, sells chickens and milk, and that is all. There are 100 cows and she puts away $3,000 each year.

A Passing Fad. On the streets of New York city there are now one bicycle where there were 140 nine years ago.

Gathering Birdnests. One of the sources of income of certain Burmah provincial governments is the letting of rights to collect edible birds' nests in the northern and southern groups of the Moscos islands in the Tavoy district. These nests command fancy prices, and are used in seasoning soups and other dishes. It pays to read the ads.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

I WAS decidedly disappointed the other day with a very charming, and I had always thought almost ideal young person, who was visiting at my house.

A group of us were standing talking together. One of the group was a young man whom this girl had met perhaps half a dozen times. In the course of the conversation he started to repeat to her a very flattering compliment he had heard of her singing.

The girl begged him to do so, and when he laughingly kept on, she advanced towards him and laid her hand across his mouth.

Now perhaps it will seem prudish to you, but I did not like that.

This is an age when friendships between men and women are very more informal, very much less stiffly conventional than they used to be.

The modern man and woman friendship is as different from the man and woman friendship of fifty years ago as the modern sleuth of roses that the man of today sends the girl of the twentieth century is from the stilly arranged bouquet the old time lover brought his lassie.

And that I think is good.

But when this informality tends towards familiarity, that I think is bad.

I want the girl of today to be more sensible and comradeship and less exotic and sheltered in her friendships with men than her grandmother or even her mother. I want her to be able to join them in some of their sports and all of their intellectual interests.

But I don't want to see her let this fine comradeship deteriorate towards a careless familiarity.

I have heard of a girl in high society who slaps her men friends on the back when she meets them.

The American public laughs at her. I think it should be ashamed to own her.

Even between lovers I dislike to see public demonstrations, and it seems to me that they show the measure of sacredness in which they hold their love by the measure of privacy which they give its manifestations.

For a girl to pick a thread off a man's coat or a man to put back a loose lock of a girl's hair in public when the two are engaged, certainly isn't the least bit wrong but it does seem to me to border on the "fucky."

There is a couplet of Kipling's which I'd like to recall to the young people who find it difficult to confine the manifestations of their mutual ardor to the privacy of their home.

"For howsoever love be bled
The world at large hath eyes."

with her children who is called upon to regret in this wise.

There is scarcely a prettier sight in the world than that of a mother and daughter living in perfect companionship with each other. The daughter gets a very great deal of inspiration from such close living and the mother certainly derives a great deal of comfort from it.

It may be a sacrifice in the beginning for a mother to give up her own predilections to enter into the amusements and the ambitions of her daughter, but there comes a time when she finds that it has been worth all it has cost and that it has been eminently worth while. The daughter who grows up with the idea that mother is her best friend, who finds it as natural as anything in the world to include her mother in her calculations gets a harmony that is rare and invigorating.

When the time comes that only one travels the road of life where but a little while before there were two, there is the sweet consolation that one has lived the true measure of life. If it is the mother who is called first she has given the daughter an experience that shall be her shield through all the worries and temptations of the after years.

But even before that time comes, often when she reaches a point in life's road where there is only an intersection point instead of direction, she will stop and ask herself what mother would advise under the circumstances. And by her knowledge of mother's thoughts on just these things she is able to make the right decision.

It isn't the daughter who grows away from the mother as often as it is the mother who grows away from the daughter. This is particularly likely to happen where the mother has interests outside the home. She leaves her growing daughter too much to the society of others, and often to foreign influences. Some day she awakens to find herself separated as far from her child as if each dwelt at the opposite poles.

The companionable mother gets her daughter's confidence and holds it through the critical years. She is able to discriminate between the young people with whom her child is thrown into association and she is able to surround her with just the right type of companions to keep her clean and wholesome. Surely the undertaking is well worth while.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

FOUR RECIPES FOR CAKES AND COOKIES OF GERMANY.

Biltz Kuchen, Platten, German Almond Cookies and Biltz Kuchlein Are Not Difficult to Make and All Will Enjoy them.

Biltz Kuchen.—Mix to a cream three cups fine sugar and one cupful butter. Add six eggs and three cupfuls of flour. Spread this batter on greased pans so thinly that you can almost see the bottom of the pans. Sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and chopped nuts of any kind, and bake to a light brown in a moderate oven. As soon as removed from the oven, cut at once into squares before it hardens, as it is difficult to lift out whole without breaking.

Platten.—Use for this two cupfuls powdered sugar, the yolk of four eggs, a pinch each of cinnamon and cloves and flour to stiffen. Beat the egg yolks until light and foamy, stir in the sugar gradually, beat thoroughly, then add spices and flour enough to allow the batter to drop from a spoon into a greased tin. Leave room enough to spread without touching.

German Almond Cookies.—Beat the yolk of six eggs until light, then add one cupful and a half of sugar that has been beaten to a cream with three-fourths cupful softened butter. Add a cupful blanched, chopped almonds, one tablespoonful cinnamon and three cupfuls of flour. Beat hard and drop by small spoonfuls onto a buttered pan, putting an almond on top of each cake. Bake in a moderate oven.

Biltz Kuchlein.—Melt two scant cupfuls lard and add to it two cupfuls molasses, one teaspoonful each of cloves and cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful salt, a teaspoonful soda dissolved in a little hot water, one well-beaten egg and sifted flour, adding the flour a little at a time until the dough is thick enough to roll out. Cut in fancy shapes and bake in a moderate oven.

Frozen Pudding. Split two dozen lady fingers and dip in sherry. In a double boiler scald two cupfuls of cream, pour over the yolk of six eggs and three-quarters of a cupful of sugar beaten together; mix, return to the double boiler and stir over the fire until it thickens. Strain and when cool flavor with one teaspoonful of vanilla. Put in a freezer and turn until it begins to thicken. Add one pint of cream, whipped, and freeze for five minutes longer. Stand a mold in a little ice and salt. In the bottom put a layer of the frozen cream, then some of the lady's fingers and a tablespoonful of apricot jam, then another layer of cream. Fill up in the same order until all is used, having the last layer cream. Cover, bind the edges with a buttered cloth and bury the mold in ice and salt. Stand aside for two hours.

Scotch Currant Buns. Two pounds bread dough, one-half pound lard, two pounds currants, two pounds raisins, one-half pound orange peel, one-half pound almonds, one pound sugar, tablespoonful caraway seeds, one ounce ground ginger, one ounce cinnamon. Put lard on top of dough and set on end of stove to slowly melt, then take all the fruit, sugar and spices, which has to be thoroughly mixed and kneaded, and add to dough on baking board. Put it into cake pan and press into shape. Make a very tough pie crust, roll out thin, turn out bun on crust and cover all over. Put back into pan again and prick top with fork. Rub over with yolk of egg. Bake in slow oven for about three hours.

Red Cabbage Relish.—Remove all the loose leaves and the hard white part of a red cabbage, dice.

German Veal Soup.—Put two pounds of the knuckle of veal into three quarts of water (cold), with salt, pepper, a carrot, onion and a clove to season. Simmer for four hours, cool, and skim and strain. Vide into fourths, and run through a meat chopper. Wash in a sieve and put in a granite kettle with one pint of water and two heaping tablespoonfuls of nice bacon fat. Add one-half cupful of white wine vinegar, three heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar, a pinch of pepper, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, salt to taste, and three or four good sized tart apples. Cover and cook about two hours. Stir often to prevent burning. It must not be moist. This is nice to serve with roast goose or turkey.

Cocoanut Pound Cake. One-half cup of butter, two cups of sugar, one cup of milk and five eggs, beaten to a stiff froth; one teaspoon of soda and two of cream of tartar stirred into four cups of sifted flour. Beat the butter and sugar until very light, to which add the beaten yolks, then the milk, the beaten whites of eggs, then the flour by degrees. After beating all well together add a small coconut, grated. Line the cake pans with paper, well buttered, and fill little more than half full and bake in a moderate oven.

Poa Puro. Press half a can of peas through a sieve, retaining the remainder for another meal. Place one pint of milk in a tablespoonful of flour, mixed with an equal amount of butter. Cook it until creamy, then add the pea puree and season with pepper and salt, or the flour may be omitted and the whole can of peas used, which will make it thick enough. Dried peas can be used in place of canned and are cheaper, but must be soaked over night and then boiled before adding to the milk.

THE PIANO EXERTS INFLUENCE ON THE HOME

That the piano exerts a broad influence on the home there can be no doubt. The great Rubenstein once said that piano instruction should be made compulsory, if only to lighten the troubles and vexations of man and woman. Certainly there's nothing brings more gladness and sunshine into the home than a good piano. A fortunate election, hit, becomes a matter of vital importance.

Have You in View the Purchase of a Piano?

If so, you could make no wiser choice than from this list:

A fortunate selection, then, becomes a matter of vital importance. A piano constructed on scientific principles, with flexible solidity, of the choicest material throughout, to withstand years of use and the trying conditions of our variable climate. BELOIT VICTORS OVER JANESVILLE

IN ANNUAL DEBATE WHICH CAME TO NEGATIVE BY 2 TO 1 VOTE.

AGAINST COMMISSION GOVT

Local High School Debaters Are Losers in Brilliant Forensic Contest.

In a brilliant and hard-fought forensic contest the local team of high school debaters was defeated by their old-time rivals from Beloit in the third annual debate held under the auspices of the Beloit College Interstate Debating League at the high school auditorium last evening, by the decision of two to one in favor of the negative, or against the commission form of city government.

Clear reasoning and excellent preparation was manifested by both teams and it would have been a problem for the casual listener to have rendered a decision at the end of the contest. The subject read as follows: "Resolved, that the commission form of city government, as used in Galveston and Des Moines, be adopted by the cities of Illinois and Wisconsin having a population of between 2,000 and 200,000 inhabitants. It is understood that the salaries of the commissioners be proportioned to the size of the cities. Constitutionality is conceded."

With the above for the subject the debate was opened shortly after eight o'clock before a crowded and enthusiastic home, by the presiding officer, Francis Grant of the Janesville Board of Education, who read the topic and introduced the first speaker for the affirmative, Thom McArthur of Janesville.

In opening the debate the speaker said it was important to note that the commission form of city government was not a new or recent development but was almost identical with the old New England town government which was one of the most successful forms which has ever been tried. It was next pointed out that the municipal affairs were largely a business proposition and consequently should be dealt with in a business-like way. Grant and corruption are synonymous with present day city officials while under the commission form there is not one instance of the commissioners violating the trust which has been placed upon them.

At the present time is due the peoples' knowledge that if one set of corrupt officials are ousted another set equally as bad will be substituted. The commission form of government is more democratic than the old form because it is more representative and by it the people can secure what they wish. Cities of today are not political units but are business corporations demanding democratic, businesslike and efficient administration of affairs which may be secured by the commission plan which has been proven a success.

Milton Thompson opened the debate for the negative. The trend of his address was to the effect that the evils of the present system are not inherent and are not fostered by it; that the commission form is not the remedy and that it has been manifestly tried to warrant its adoption in Wisconsin and Illinois. Evils in municipal government may be laid to two causes, unbusinesslike methods and leakage in expenditures or so-called "graft." The former evil was not admitted to exist and if it did it was the fault of the people who elected the city officials. The latter evil was also due to a lack of public vigilance. The negative advocated an extension of the civil service to remedy the prevalent spoils system. Municipal and voters' leagues and civic bureaus are some of the means which may be used to make the city tolerate response and awaken to conditions of the day.

Continuing for the affirmative, Lewis French explained the special features of the commission plan showing how it would remedy evils of the present time. It was pointed out that the legislative and administrative departments of the city were virtually the same as regards function and could best be handled by the same body of men who are familiar with the needs. Each of the councilmen under the commission form would be at the head of a special department in which he would be an expert and this would result in an economical administration as has been demonstrated in the diminishing debt of cities who have tried the system. Under the proposed plan the ward line would be abolished thus eliminating the political factions and the manipulations of the ward boss. Further responsibility would be ascertained exactly who some act had been accomplished. In these ways the commission form of city government proves its superiority over the present system.

Theodore Lipman gave the second speech for the negative side. He argued that the commission plan would not secure a businesslike administration of affairs and pointed to the increase in the city debt in Boston, Galveston, and Des Moines and to the low per capita debt in cities like Beloit where it is only $4. Further, he asserted that graft would not be eliminated but would rather be augmented. Log rolling would be prevalent and the commissioners would be just as susceptible to the corruptions of politicians as formerly for the proposed system cannot change the personality of such people. Present conditions in the cities of Illinois and Wisconsin have been met in the long growth of our present system and that satisfaction is secured is proved by statements from prominent men in various cities of both states. All in all there was no need for a change in the cities of these states when present conditions if they are bad are being continually remedied under the present system and when the commission form is uncertain in its workings.

The constructive argument for the affirmative was closed by Elmer Cuckow, who brought out the fact that the commission plan would do away with political parties in municipal affairs and that better men would be attracted to the offices of commissioners because of the honor which would be attendant, as well as the salary, which would be remunerative. The economy of the plan from the viewpoint of the tax payer was pointed out by statements of the results in cities where the system has been tried. It was noted that under Roosevelt, Root and Elliot, were advocates of the plan. It was also stated that the morals of the cities adopting the system had been improved and that a large part of the opposition comes from the unions and the financial element. With a brief summary of the points of the affirmative the constructive debate for the affirmative was closed.

In the final speech for the negative Robert Ewing contended that the proposed change was too radical a step for a plan which had not been adequately tried, and that it was unsound in its theory. It had been tried in two cities of the country, Sacramento and New Orleans, and after fifteen years experience they had abandoned the plan as unsuccessful. The purpose of city government is two-fold: to give expression to the will of the people, and to carry that will into execution. The commission plan combines two of the departments of government which is contrary to all teachings of political science which to the extent of separation of the two departments is recognized by business corporations. It is not certain either that the best men will be secured to act as commissioners as business men will be slow to leave their business on account of the uncertainty of the position while today the best men of the cities in question serve in the capacity of public servants. With a brief summary of the negative argument the constructive debate was closed.

Short rebuttal arguments were given by each of the speakers on both teams. These were largely in the way of summary with some cross fire over statements made by the opposition. All the speeches were vigorous and well rendered and called forth a deserving amount of applause.

The judges rendered their decision without conference which was two to one in favor of the negative. Judges were Prof. R. K. Richardson of Beloit college; Capt. E. D. Denton of Lake Geneva, Wis.; and R. S. Frost of Rockford, Ill.

ANNUAL ADDRESS TO SOUTHERN DAIRYMEN

President S. J. Stauffacher of Southern Wisconsin Dairymen's Association Spoke on Dairy Conditions.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Monroe, Wis., Jan. 21.—President S. J. Stauffacher, in his annual address before the Southern Wisconsin Cheese-makers' and Dairymen's association, treated the evils that retard the cheese and dairy business of the section of the state covered by the association. He spoke of the great improvements that have taken place in factory equipment and surroundings, the successful dairyman having the advantage of large and well equipped barns and valuable dairy herds. He also spoke of the alfalfa crops which have been raised on land where formerly there were small yields, and in the abundant yield now the solution of the dairy and agricultural school, which he said would greatly aid the industry.

Buttermakers present were urged to test their butter for water before shipping, and to observe the pure food law more attentively. He said another step that must be taken sooner or later was the establishment of cow-teating associations which would enable dairymen to eliminate the unprofitable cow.

One of the evils referred to was the packing of cheese in cheap material, much cheese being rejected from the market because of poor packing.

In conclusion Mr. Stauffacher stated the future prosperity of our dairy and agricultural industry depends entirely upon the successful elimination of evils that now figure in and delay progress.

A feature of the entertainment was the spelling contest. Miss Stokes was declared the winner of the "spell-down," against about twenty other contestants. Delicious refreshments were served.

A "Moderate" Accident.

"This is to let you know," the Billville man wrote to the home folks, "that I wasn't run over, but, by a street car, but only moderate, and I like the city so well that I'm resting up in the hospital to get in condition to have another look at it. Don't worry about me, I'm doing as well as could be expected."

The Berlin Way.

Wealthy Berliners do not turn tourists during the tourist season. They avoid the crowds by traveling before and after the crowded months, thus making sure of more comfort on route, and better rooms and service at hotels.
